

MORNING APPEAL.

SATURDAY.....FEBRUARY 19, 1881

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE TREASURY.

Dick Dev is now so certain of the result of his pin-to-the-wall talk about the Capitol building, that he is offering to bet that the bill to lift the burdens of taxation from the shoulders of Colonel Fair will become a law, despite the decisions of two duly authorized courts. There is a good deal of objection at present against granting appropriations for the building of an asylum, on the ground that the treasury is too depleted to stand it. The most feasible course now to pursue is to kill the Fair relief bill, and the sum which the State would receive in taxes (amounting to seventy-five or eighty thousand dollars) would build a splendid asylum and save a still further sum to the treasury. No man not blinded by influences which have no business to blind public servants can object to this view of the case, and the matter is viewed by a majority of the voters as a tax-payers of this State.

CLARK'S SACK.—The Hayneor Asylum bill, which provides for the erection of an asylum at Carson, will be defeated, just as the Reno Asylum bill was. It is an unheard of disgrace that a California sack can be brought into the Nevada Legislature to defeat measures which are in the interest of State pride and economy. One member of the Assembly stated yesterday that he was offered $250 to vote against any and all asylum bills. There is no one but Dr. Clark interested in this business. It is a matter of regret that the Times should become the advocate of California lobbyists. It says: "Viewed in a common sense light there can be no doubt that an extension of the present contract with Drs. Langdon & Clark, of Stockton, California, renewal of which is now offered by Dr. A. A. Clark, the surviving partner, at a rate for two years or more of $5.50 per week for each patient, is desirable from every point of view." Why is the above proposition "desirable from every point of view," and why is an asylum maintained at Stockton any more desirable than one maintained at Carson? This asylum business is beginning to stink more than the tax penalty bill.

PURE DOGS.—The Enterprise charges the editor of this paper with omitting to carefully peruse the Congressional documents sent to this office by Congressman Daggett. During the past year the APPEAL has been specially favored in the matter of Pure Dogs, Mr. Daggett having sent in all two and a quarter tons. We could never have kept the APPEAL up to its present status of popularity and at the same time read over two tons of Congressional debate. While a great admirer of the marmot which is to be found between the lids of those ponderous books, we also realize the fact that we have but one life to lead, and it must be devoted to the earnest work of discrediting our enemies through the columns of a daily newspaper, and figuring how much wood these same Pure Dogs save us during the busy twelve months. It is much easier to burn a three-pound book than read it understandingly, and in common with many others we realize that there are already altogether too many books in the world.

REDUCTION OF WAGES.—The Footlight says: A certain superintendent of two mines in this city, who comes up from Frisco every month, in time for pay day, draws a splendid salary. He is paid, no doubt, as much for his superintendence as the mining companies pay for the month's labor of five miners. Has anybody said anything about reducing his salary? Oh, no! The reduction of expenses must be made by reducing the wages of miners.

THE MILK IN THE COUNTRY.—Dr. Clark is now anxious to secure a new asylum contract, even at reduced rates. The reason of it is that Langdon, the other member of the firm, is dead, and in the old contract continues Clark must divide the profits with Langdon's heirs. If he gets a new contract, he doesn't divide with the dead man, but muzzles him instead.

The members of Cuern Peso, G. A. Ba, and the Mex Con Veterans, desire that the Legislature pass a bill to enable them to employ convict labor in the construction of a ditch from the reservoir to the cemetery where Union soldiers are buried. Such a request should pass the Legislature by a unanimous vote.

The height of the human figure is estimated by anatomists to be six times the length of the feet. This estimate must have been made, however, before Senator Rockwell came into public notice or Citizen of Gold Hill. It is pleasant, however, to see these gentleman's peddles set down on some of Haines' hills.

Senator Meder has introduced a bill to disincorporate Carson. Bills have also been introduced to disincorporate Virginia City and Gold Hill. It seems to be the general plan that Nevada should become a howling wilderness. The next step will be the razing of the State under a Territorial Government.

The penalties bill reached engrossment in the Senate yesterday, owing to the absence of some of its opposers. Eleven voted in favor of the disposition made of it. It requires two more to pass it. The public will take great interest in the two who fail, provided the bill is passed.

The writings of Robert Ingersoll, aside from their anti-religious flavor, contain some of the acknowledged gems of the English language. Yet the Eureka Sentinel pronounces them "stupid."

The Commissioners of Storey county, taking a lesson from the past, have determined to make the county safe on their treasure, and have just raised his bond to $120,000.

The Reno Gazette says: The Carson Times is the only paper in this State which pronounces in favor of renewing Langdon & Clark's contract. Shame!
